Community activist Dave Kerpen, who had been planning a bid for the City Council seat being vacated by Queens City Council Member David I. Weprin (D - Hollis), who is preparing a bid for NYC Comptroller is moments away from ending his City Council bid and entering the Democratic Primary for Queens Borough President.Kerpin is joined by a large group of family and friends in an Astoria restaurant, where he has just stated his intent to form an exploratory committe for a "potential run" for Queens Borough President.In the September primary, only the incumbent, Helen Marshall had previously announced her intention to run.I'll have a full report later this afternoon.
